

Columbia Forest Products offers Lyptus[®] Hardwood Plywood available now with PureBond[®] formaldehyde-free plywood technology.

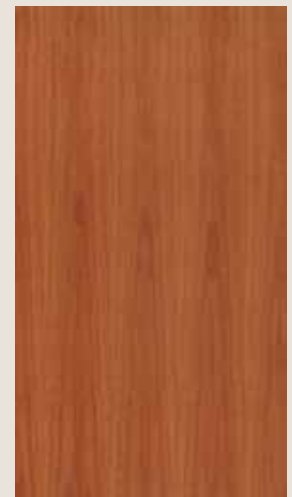

Made of Lyptus[®]
by Grattarola, Italy

Features & Benefits

- Aesthetics. Lyptus® is beautiful and comparable to mahogany and cherry in appearance with a fine grain, dramatic figure and rich color.
- Exotic. Lyptus offers the inherent graining and colorations found in some of the most beautiful of exotic hardwoods.
- Environmental. Lyptus is a fast-growing and renewable eucalyptus hybrid tree species that wood workers prefer for its exotic appearance and workability. And Lyptus is now available in FSC® certified panel constructions upon request.
- Properties. Lyptus has a density similar to ash or hickory with a look similar to genuine mahogany, with a cherry color. It machines, sands and finishes well.
- Value. Even with its premium looks and PureBond® technology, Lyptus is priced favorably compared to many traditional hardwood plywood options.

A GRADE PLAIN SLICED LYPTUS

Columbia Forest Products has teamed with Weyerhaeuser to announce enhancements to the Lyptus® hardwood plywood line. The veneer production has been moved to the US allowing even greater control of quality and service levels. The Quarter Sawn and Plain Sliced veneers are both now offered in a blended, more pleasing color range that follows the trends of other exotic species. Most importantly, all panels are still formaldehyde free, featuring soy-based PureBond technology. Whether clear coated or stained, the color, grain and depth of Lyptus face veneers provide a timeless beauty that few other species can match.

Green, beautiful and offered by Columbia Forest Products.
